Note Photoshop is not a drawing program. A drawing program, such as Adobe Illustrator (Illustrator), might let you add vector (digital) shapes to your document—shapes that are created solely in terms of mathematical equations. Photoshop, by contrast, is a raster (pixel-based) image editing program. You can create some vector shapes and text in Photoshop, but those aren't considered to be layers, the building blocks of an image. Click OK. Photoshop creates a new layer, which is labeled 1 (Figure 1-8). It also creates a layer mask for this layer, which you can see in the Layers palette. This is what you call the active layer because, as the name suggests, it's the one that can be edited or masked. Figure 1-8. Each layer has a transparent mask that can be edited or erased. This mask is also the layer's filter or mask filter (a Photoshop term). With the Layers palette set to Show All Layers, you can see the layers you've already created in the document.

When it's compared to Adobe Photoshop and Adobe Photoshop Elements 5 and earlier, its features are limited. However, it has a stable UI and no plugins are required to use the features. These were the best alternatives to Adobe Photoshop when Photoshop Elements came out. Some of the features and the reasons that it's best suited for each task. 10 Best Alternatives to Adobe Photoshop and Adobe Photoshop Elements

1. Adobe Photoshop Express It's a free software for image and video editing. Its features are limited when compared to Photoshop and Photoshop Elements 5. Its primary focus is on mobile editing and it has an advanced feature, called Color Correction. Creator: Adobe
2. Mini Photoshop It's designed for the people who use mobile phones or prefer to use Android applications as a replacement of their computer applications. It's a complete stock photo editor, but the limited features include touch-up tools, basic tools, cropping options and image correction filters. Creator: Mini-photonix
3. Lightroom It's a complete photo editing software designed by Adobe. It's a desktop app which supports editing RAW files and offers a variety of tools for editing, organizing and printing your images. It's not just limited to editing photos. It also supports organizing your images and printing them. Creator: Adobe
4. Krita It's a free and open-source photo editing and painting software for Linux, Windows and Mac. It includes many advanced features, making it the best alternative to Photoshop. It supports all the types of file formats. Creator: Krita
5. Gimp It's an open-source image editing software for Windows and Linux. It's free to use and the open-source community supports it by creating a huge number of modules that extend the functionality and features of the software. It supports many different file formats. Q: Change State of Previous IFrame source on Load I have the following scenario: I have a div with an iframe in it, however onload in the parent page, I have some code that wants to change the src of the iframe. Unfortunately, this results in the parent being reloaded, which causes the iframe to be re-loaded as well. This is obviously not optimal. I know I can do something like: `document.getElementById("myDiv").src = "`, while the recording resolution can be further improved by using the microdisk to encode other information on the surface of the specimen. In addition to high contrast and low background, the microdisk system further demonstrates the capability of high dynamic range imaging by using more than one disk. The ability to image multiple disks simultaneously could be used to increase the imaging throughput without the need to change the specimen or imaging environment. In the future, we plan to design a system with multiple disk holders located over an array of illumination sources to image the whole specimen. In conclusion, we have successfully demonstrated a microdisk system that combines simultaneous imaging and dynamic mechanical analysis, delivering high spatial and temporal resolution of both the surface texture and acoustic response of a specimen. In addition, it has shown the ability to provide quantitative information about sample acoustics, such as the attenuation coefficient, the lifetime of the acoustic emission, and the resonance frequencies of the material. This microdisk system, by combining high-resolution acoustic microscopy with a set of pre-aligned microdisks, allows imaging of features that are difficult or impossible to image using the existing methods and has the

Diego Luna, a former Mexican soccer player, is putting his casting skills to use for one of the first time on the silver screen. The actor recently wrapped production on the Warner Bros. war film "Ghosts of the Gulf," which also stars John Travolta and Ronda Rousey. The film will be released on Dec. 15. "I'm really excited to see the end result, because it's only taken the last two and a half years of working towards it," Luna tells Variety of his role in the action thriller. Luna says he has spent significant time in the United States in the years preceding the production of the film. He recalls spending a week in New Orleans filming scenes that later appeared in the movie. The actor, who was born in Mexico, says he was born into acting because of his parents' professions. His parents were both actors on the professional Mexican stage in the 1970s and 1980s. Luna says he still looks to the cast and crew of the film for inspiration as he follows the industry. "We're taught how to act and how to tell a story by the way we talk and interact with the other actors and crew," he says. "As actors, we're not watching a movie with the audience in mind. We're thinking about what we're going to say to each other — what information we want to share and how we can use that to tell the story." About Us INDEXING, INDEXING, INDEXING! We are The Indexing Company. We help people to do what they already know how to do: index books. We are located in Raleigh, NC and currently employ 7. We do everything through email and we know what time it is because we are not in an office, we are all-virtual. We are all retired and a family of five, and we never took stock in having jobs — or not having jobs. We have had the same job for over 30 years and we have never done a formal tour in any of them. We just do what we enjoy and do it well. We're not a large company, but we have a number of contributors and associates who have been with us for many years, and who always support us in our projects. We make our living on commissions
